Voters in Tomorrow's Primary to Endorse or Re-buke Administration by Their Ballot.

(By The Associated Press.)
COLUMBUS, Aug. 7.—Whether the national administration to receive endorsement of the Ohio voters will be determined largely in the success of Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, in tomorrow's primary. Thompson, former United States Treasurer, has been closely identified with the Harding administration, and is one of the nine Republicans running for gubernatorial nomination. All present congressmen except Charles L. Knight, of the Fourteenth District, S. D. Fess, in the Eighth are candidates respectively for the Republican gubernatorial and senatorial nominations are seeking renomination.

Crops Beginning To Need Rain

The need of rain is beginning to be felt all through this agricultural section and tobacco growers are hoping that some relief will come during the next few days from the parching heat which is already beginning to damage the tobacco crop. Many crops about Danville which were not in the path of the recent rain and hail storms are beginning to show the need of moisture.

Negro In Darkness Clubs White Man

David Van Hook With Substantial Sum Waylaid At

Saturday in Chambers Street.

A bold attempt to blackjack and rob David Van Hook, manager of the West End Filling Station was made between 11:30 and midnight on Saturday on Chambers street, where an unidentified negro took up his position behind a tree. Van Hook had closed up his gasoline service station for the night and had taken the proceeds of the day, about $230 in cash which he placed in his pocket. According to his usual custom he cut down Chambers street with the purpose of reaching his home on Ridge street by way of Grove.

Chambers street is dark, although at the Grove street extremity an electric light was placed comparatively high, and the negro, who had been taken up by his position straddling a fence and behind a Locust tree separating the James' home from the street. As Van Hook passed the negro, who had a fine head but not much about a foot long, raised it and struck Van Hook on the head from the darkness. The blow broke the piece of stone in two and on the white man's forehead a deep groove was made. Van Hook had the presence of mind to cry out aloud and this undoubtedly frightened the negro who did not have the furtherance of his attack. He then fled to the Map Van Hook traveled on his hands and knees back to Main street where his car quickly brought him several men of the vicinity who were on their front porches. The man made a big selling on the crowd of people and when the blow was dealt to Mr. E. Flynn who happened to pass by in his car, removed the man to his home. Van Hook said that he could not identify the man. All he knew was that a negro on the fence struck at him and he had and he remembered nothing else very clearly. A call was immediately sent to the police and officers answered the call and combed that immediate local area but could find no one. There is little doubt that the negro appeared suddenly and Van Hook began calling out. The view prevails that the negro knew something about the habits of the man and realizing that he would pass by that way with the proceeds of the day's business picked a good vantage point. And the negro was not a stout fellow. There is no piece of iron, there is little doubt that Van Hook would have been killed. The broken sandstone found at the spot was flat and heavy and the blow being dealt on the broad surface, it snapped it off short.

Neighbors said Lytle had been suffering from a nervous trouble for several weeks and that recently a medical session seemed to have been of worse effect. Whether it was the trouble between Lytle and his wife, neighbors said, was not known.

Mrs. J. D. Cook, W. E. Burnett, Tom Ingle and Mrs. Melton were the first to reach the scene after the explosion. Mrs. Melton said she heard Mr. Lytle screaming in one of the outside buildings, and then she appeared at the door of the building, running to ward the home with her hand on her breast. Mrs. Melton said she did not hear any statement to the neighbors about Henry within a few moments.

Lytle formerly was employed by Perley and Crockett and more recently had been engaged as a laborer on the Mount Mitchell scenic highway.

MISS NEEVES WEDS OSCAR DODSON

Information has been received in this city of the marriage last Sunday morning, July 30th at the home of the bride in Los Angeles, Calif., of H. Oscar Dodson, formerly of Danville, Va., to Miss Hilda Neeves. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dean McCormack, of St. Paul's cathedral and was attended by a number of friends of the two, including a number of Virginians resident in the Southern California metropolis.

The Neeves residence was attractively decorated with white roses, ferns, streamers and California daisies, on black-velvet cushions, as the flower is known to many easterners. The bride was attended by an old Canadian chum, Miss Edna McLennan, while E. T. Plummer, of Los Angeles, formerly of Oklahoma, was the bridegroom's best man. The double ring ceremony was used by the clergyman.

The bride was gowned in white crepe-de-chine and her bouquet was a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss McLennan was gowned in cream silk, with pale pink scarf and sash, and carried a bouquet of pale pink roses and sweet peas. After the wedding, Mr. Dodson and his bride began a tour of the beautiful Yosemite valley and thence will visit other interesting points along the North Pacific coast line. On their return they will reside at 1639-B Morton avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

STEALS GOODS TO STOCK STORE OF HIS OWN NEAR DANVILLE; HE CONFESSES

Seldom do thieves, whatever the commodities in which they deal, show any originality; they follow the beaten path with due regard for the conventions of their caste. Therein lies their weakness. It is one of the cardinal rules of the craft to deal only in goods that have a ready sale and in articles that have a high intrinsic value.

Not so with James C. Mayberry, arrested yesterday seven miles out on the Chatham road by Detective J. N. Campbell, of this city and Chief of Police Cole, of Schoolfield. Mayberry's method was to steal a whole store or as much of it as he could get into a Ford truck, move his goods to another section and open up a store.

He selected the goods he pilfered with discrimination and care, with an eye to catering to the various needs of his prospective patrons.

Mayberry came to grief, not thru any carelessness on his own part; he was not apprehended by the clever work of diligent officers, but he was caught in the net of fortuitous circumstances, over which he had no control, and against which he could not fortify himself.

Following his arrest, Mayberry was placed in the Danville jail and the goods he had stolen were brought to the court house in two cars. He made a confession and expressed a desire for a speedy trial.

Mayberry has been living in Danville for the past two years off and on. Most of that time he has been "on the road." But while here he lived on Pickett street. What out of the city he ran a tent movie show, which he moved from village to village. This tent show appears to have been a blind, behind which he conducted his more serious vocation of stealing and transporting stocks of goods. After a successful freebooting expedition it was his wont to rent a small store, usually in some rural neighborhood, and dispose of the goods he had lifted.

It was stated at police headquarters yesterday that he had opened eight or nine stores in and around Danville. Most of the stores were stocked with general merchandise, but on one occasion, it is said, he opened a jewelry store.

About the middle of July he took his tent movie show to Bear Creek, Chatham County, N. C. Chatham County is a bucolic community where there is no regular movie show, and Mayberry is said to have prospered.

While in Bear Creek he made the acquaintance of W. A. Phillips, proprietor of a general merchandise store. Mr. Phillips states that Mayberry came into his store two or three times a day while he was in Bear Creek and that during the course of the week he got to know the stranger fairly well.

After Mayberry had been in the community about ten days he decided that it was time to move. There was no particular reason for this move as the crowds at his movie shows were still good. Late on the night of his departure four boys were passing by Phillips' store and they saw a light in the building and a man moving about. Thinking that it was Phillips they called to him. This alarmed Mayberry and he hurriedly left the store, getting into a Ford truck and drove off. Officers were notified at once and Mayberry's trail was picked up.

It had rained during the night and the officers found it comparatively easy to follow the trail by distinctive tread on the rear wheels of the car.

Mayberry headed for Greensboro and about 15 miles out of that city a front tire blew out and he ran into the city on the rim. This made the trail easier. The officers learned that they arrived in Greensboro just 15 minutes behind Mayberry.

The trail was lost in Greensboro and picked up later in Danville. It appears that Mayberry while in the Bear Creek neighborhood had represented himself as a friend of Dr. John L. Nail, of this city, but formerly of Bear Creek. He said that Dr. Nail was half owner in a movie show. A letter was written by Dr. Nail's brother, Dr. Nail himself made an investigation and found that the man was preparing to open a store on the Chatham road and that Mayberry's own people were at loss to understand where he had obtained the money for such a venture. Dr. Nail thought that the situation was sufficiently suspicious to write to the sheriff of Chatham county, N. C., to come to Danville.

Dr. Nail stated last night that he had been informed that Mayberry represented himself as a single man while in Bear Creek in order to be able to pay attention to unmarried women. All the time Dr. Nail was attending Mrs. Mayberry in Danville.

Det. B. E. McManus of Chatham county, arrived in Danville yesterday morning and reported at police headquarters. Detective Campbell was assigned to the case and as he was in the county, Chief Cole, of Schoolfield, was asked to be one of the party to visit Mayberry at his store.

When the officers arrived at the store Mayberry was sitting in the small porch in front. When the officers approached he immediately sensed the situation and said, "The fat's in the fire, it's all up." He then confessed to the robbery at Bear Creek and when Detective Campbell found marks on certain goods that indicated that some of the commodities had been stolen at Milton, N. C., where there was a recent robbery, he confessed to the second robbery as well.

He even assisted the officers in separating the two stocks of goods, saying "I don't want anyone to get anything that does not belong to him."

Mayberry was seen by a reporter of the Bee in jail yesterday and he made his previous confession to the officers and added to it.

He said that he had been forced to his career of robbery by the illness of his wife, whom he described as an invalid, that she had been sick a long while and that doctors' bills had been piling up and that when a time came that he was broke, he decided upon the desperate course of robbing stores to obtain a stock of goods for a store of his own.

When asked whether he had robbed any other stores except the one at Bear Creek and the one at Milton he said they were the only two stores that he had robbed. However, local authorities believe that he has robbed other stores and it was said that he had opened up a number of other stores at various times.

Mayberry said that he was born in Carroll county and early in life had moved to West Virginia, where he became a mechanic. He said that at one time he was employed as a mechanic by a street railway in Princeton, W. Va.

ery Saturday night and forced his wife to give him her weekly wages. It was also stated that it was very doubtful whether Mayberry has ever paid any of his wife's doctor bills.

Mayberry said yesterday that he intended to make a clean breast of the whole matter and would return to North Carolina without requisition. He begged Deputy Sheriff McManus to get him out of Danville as soon as possible. Just why he made this request is not known.

The store that was robbed at Milton belongs to Walter Oliver. This store was robbed after the robbery at Bear Creek.

The store on the Chatham road that was rented by Mayberry belongs to W. E. Edwards, a brother of Sergeant J. L. Edwards, of the Danville police department. It was rented about a week ago.

Mr. Phillips, whose store was robbed at Bear Creek, accompanied Deputy Sheriff McManus to this city and he and Mr. Oliver, of Milton, divided the goods that were found at Mayberry's store. Mayberry also assisted in this division.

About $500 worth of goods were stolen from Mr. Phillips and the same amount was stolen from Mr. Oliver. Practically all of the goods were recovered as Mayberry had only had his store open about three days.

Danville officers will investigate rumors that Mayberry has been connected with other robberies in Virginia and North Carolina.

A number of home-made keys were found on Mayberry. These keys were cleverly made and tally with the statement that he is a mechanic. He opened Phillips' store with a key and it is presumed that was his usual method of entrance.

The Ford truck which Mayberry used for his depredations had an old Fla license tag on it and the motor number had been carefully erased. This leads to the suspicion that the car may have been stolen.

It was reported last night at police headquarters that Mayberry had been apprehended in High Falls, N. C., on the charge of stealing a car. He managed, it is said, to clear himself of this charge.

REV. J. F. ROGERS GOING TO CHARLOTTE

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 4.—The Rev. George Floyd Rogers of St. John's Episcopal Church, Lynchburg, Virginia, has accepted the rectorship of St. Peter's Episcopal Church of this city. Mr. Rogers was born in Petersburg, Virginia, in 1875, educated at the University of Virginia and Theological Seminary of Virginia. First entered upon practice of law but abandoned that profession for the ministry. He founded the Industrial School and Farm for Homeless Boys near Covington, Virginia, and remained president and directing genius of the institution during its growth from a small school to an institution of national note. The new rector is president of the Virginia State Juvenile Protection Society and president of the Virginia State Conference of Charities and Corrections. He was active in Rotary club work and is chaplain in the Royal Arch Masons and a member of Elks. Mr. Rogers married Miss Louise Zinner of Petersburg, Virginia. They have five children. The new rector will take charge of St. Peter's Parish on October 15, which date has been set for the consecration of Dr. Penick as Bishop Co-adjutor.

REVIVAL AT VANDOLA CHURCH

A series of evangelistic services is being conducted at Vandola Baptist church this week. The pastor Rev. E. P. Robertson is being assisted by Rev. H. W. Connelly, pastor of Second Baptist church Danville. Two services are conducted in the evening at 6:30 and 8 o'clock. Large crowds are attending at the second service the building cannot accommodate the people. Thirty-one so far have been received into the membership. There will be two more services Saturday night and the closing service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock after which the ordinance of Baptism will be administered.

CHATHAM NEWS NOTES

CHATHAM, Aug. 5.—Good rains in many sections of Pittsylvania this week have put renewed faith into the hearts of the farmers and at present the indications are that one of the largest tobacco crops in many years will be this year. Other crops are good in proportion and vegetables are going begging at very low prices. Mid-ones are coming in and demanding very good prices. Some few have out a small quantity and the close of the coming week will find right many houses filled.

In the southern section of the county hail did heavy damage this week and the section near Riceville in the eastern part has been recently severely damaged but confined to a small area. The crops taken as a whole are the best in many years and everything now points to a year of good business.

The twelve thousand dollars bond issue voted on Thursday will be for improving Main and two side streets and the bonds will be offered for sale at an early date and work begun soon as conditions will allow.

Misses Hazel Tyree, Marguerite Motley, Louise Vaden and Mr. D. A. Jefferson left for Mountain Lake on auto Friday. They will be joined by Misses Katherine Coles and Sallie Tate Cherry who left by rail on the same day.

DUFFY-KIRKS

Accompanied by several friends Mr. Finch Weston Duffy and Miss Elmer May Kirks motored to the parsonage of the Second Baptist Church Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and were united in marriage by pastor H. W. Connelly. Mr. Duffy is an employee of the Dan River and River Side cotton mill. Co. Miss Kirks is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kirks.

They will make their home in Schoolfield.

Dr. Jas. Shelburne will preach at 11 o'clock and will conduct the Union service at Mt. Vernon church in the evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Shelburne will leave for his vacation next week and will be out of the city for the next three Sundays.

His Own Strike

Secretary of Labor Davis himself strikes for an hour or so to forget all the worries that rail, coal and other strikes have piled upon him. Here you see him at a Washington pool ready to plunge in and drown his worries.

Start One-Stop Flight Across Country Sunday

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 5.—Lieutenant James H. Doolittle, 90th aero squadron, army air service, virtually completed preparations today for the start Sunday night of his proposed one-stop, one day flight across the continent, a feat which Lieutenant William D. Coney of Brunswick, Ga., attempted in March 1921, only to lose his life when his plane crashed near Monroe, La.

Weather conditions along the route permitting, the aviator is to hop off from the edge of the Atlantic ocean at Pablo Beach, 18 miles east of here, at 9 o'clock and, with a brief stop at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, Monday morning for fuel, he expects to arrive at Sandiego, Calif., approximately 2,200 miles from Jacksonville, before dark Monday evening. With no interfering head winds, Lieutenant Doolittle should reach Kelly Field shortly after daylight Monday. Preliminary reports from the weather bureau late today indicated, however, that the wind probably would be unfavorable.

The route generally follows the gulf coast from here and the pilot expects to pass over Pensacola and possibly Mobile, shortly after midnight. The plane will cross Louisiana some distance north of New Orleans.

CLAIMS WRANGLER ISLAND

NONE, Alaska, Aug. 5.—After spending a year on Wrangel Island in the Arctic Ocean, the advance guard of Stefansson's exploration and development expedition to the far north is to be brought back here on the power schooner Nokatak. On telegram orders from Stefansson, Captain Fred Swanson is fitting the Nokatak out to go after the party.

The party, which landed on the island last summer and wintered there, is said to have hoisted the British flag and claimed the territory for Great Britain. Previously the island had been regarded as Russian territory, according to ship masters familiar with the Arctic.

Commercial Crop Of Cotton Put At 11,653,133 Bales

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—Secretary Hester's annual report on the commercial cotton crop of 1921-22 announced here today, put the total commercial crop of 1921-22 at 11,653,133 bales, an increase of 275,817 over 1920-21, and a decrease under 1919-20 of 790,047 bales.

The commercial crop of Texas, Secretary Hester said, is 942,000 bales under last year. The group of "other states," embracing Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arizona, California, Kansas and New Mexico, have decreased 396,000, while the Atlantic States, including Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky and Virginia have increased 1,614,000 bales.

The report pointed out that the average grade was middling and that the year's production was one of the most even running growths on record due to rapidity of picking and ginning.

Mr. Hester said he had made an extensive investigation into the character of the carryover, his inquiries being of about July 15. He said Texas has little nondescript cotton and that there were practically "no bollies" in this year's crop. Oklahoma has been pretty well coughed of everything below strict to middling to middling, which values, and the supply remaining in that state is good spinnable cotton, showing a higher average in grade than at any season for the last ten years. Louisiana has little or no unmerchantable cotton. Arkansas reports not over 1 per cent. of unmerchantable cotton. Mississippi reports most of its carryover of fair grade, spinnable cotton, and the Atlantic States show a very small percentage of undesirable descriptions.

The report placed the exports of cotton to foreign ports at 6,322,470 bales against 5,797,580 last year and 6,588,091 year before last, an increase over last year of 524,890 and a decrease under the year before of 265,621 bales.

Cotton consumption in the south was placed at 3,942,000 bales of American cotton, while consumption in the north is given as 2,292,000, a total of 6,234,000 bales, including linters. In addition, the report said 400,000 bales of foreign cotton, making the total consumption of American and foreign growth by American mills of 6,532,000 against 5,399,000, last year.

Mr. Hester put the world's consumption of American cotton at 12,804,000 bales against 10,330,000 last year, and 12,970,000 the year before.

LADY ASTOR'S OPPONENT FOR COMMONS IS DRY LAW FOE

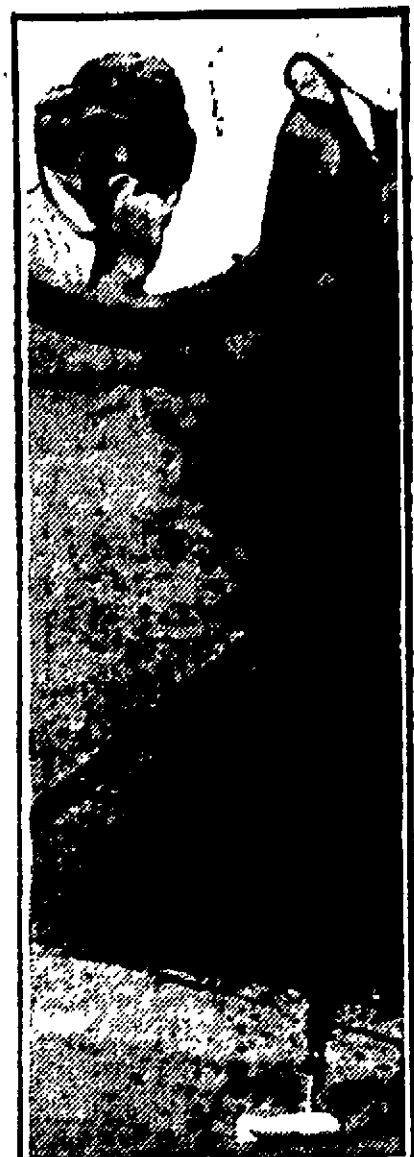

PLYMOUTH, England, August 5.—The executive committee of the Conservative and Unionist Association of Plymouth has reaffirmed its unwavering loyalty to Lady Astor, who represents the Sutton division of Devonshire in the House of Commons. The committee unanimously pledged themselves to resist any proposition to her.

The Plymouth Liberals already have pledged support to Lady Astor. Dr. H. W. Baskin has been selected unanimously as the imperial Conservative candidate to oppose Lady Astor for the Sutton division seat in the House of Commons at the next general election.

When accepting the nomination, Dr. Baskin announced himself opposed to prohibition, saying it would only lead to "a dangerous increase in the use of alcohol."

FRENCH PUBLIC GROWS IMPATIENT

PARIS, Aug. 5.—The Council of ministers have fully considered the reparations problem and the proposed meeting of premiers in London. Great surprise is expressed at what is felt to be the unreasonable and inconsistent attitude of the British government which only last week after the Italian crisis had declared itself, was pressing Raymond Poincare to hasten his visit to London. While the interests of other countries are not forgotten it is believed that the basis of everything is an understanding between France and England.

In consequence of the ambiguous character of the British position the French project is not being pushed with the same vigor. Indeed M. Poincare has become exceedingly reserved. He is anxious not to commit himself too far before knowing what are the present views of Mr. Lloyd George. Nevertheless, it transpires from this council meeting that the French government will, if the date of the conversations is not soon fixed and if the official opinion of England is not made known, consider the question of issuing a plain statement.

The French public is becoming impatient. It wants to know what is the positive plan of the government. This plan, as revealed by The Christian Science Monitor correspondent from information obtained in the highest quarters endeavors to be a mixture of firmness and sacrifices. There is much insistence on the responsibility of Germany, there is a strong demand for guarantees from the German government, and the obtaining of specific pledges. But, at the same time, in order to obtain rapid payment by means of a loan on the international market, France will make concessions respecting the total of the German indemnity on condition that she obtains priority for the reparation of devastated regions and is able to acquire herself by financial combinations of her debts toward England.

This is the French policy and although there is a natural reluctance to publish what, in spite of camouflaging seriousness, is really a tremendous step toward the views of those who hold the German indemnities to be impossible. The ministers feel that they will be obliged to set out boldly the truth about debts and indemnity. It is not understood what object England has in avoiding an encounter, for the reasons given are generally regarded as a pure pretext. It is suggested that England first wants to settle with America. If this is true then the conference will have but nevertheless, it is hoped that it will be possible to convene such a gathering before winter.

The French government has invited J. P. Morgan to come to the new bankers committee.

PROSPERITY COMING BACK TO COUNTRY

KINSTON, N. C., Aug. 4.—Prosperity is coming back to the tobacco country this winter, according to a hundred predictions today. There will be no making of fortunes in a single autumn, as occurred before the post-war slump came; on the other hand there will be no general dropping of newly-acquired competencies as occurred when the slump came, with a suddenness and directness that cured many tobacco belt people of speculative tendencies for the remainder of their lives.

In spite of a crop short as a result of six months of climatic misfortunes, the tobacco production in this belt this year will put many a grower's back to several years' standing; unless the average price of 20 cents now prevailing in the lower part of this state and South Carolina should break sharply before the Eastern AC-crop is marketed. Twenty cents in that territory means some cents more here as a general thing, and the quality of the local crop is declared to be superior to that in the southern districts. Usually it is considerably better, and is put on the market in better shape.

Fertilizer bills were reduced the past spring, labor was cheaper than in years, and more of the farmers' own "muscle grease" was expended in making the crop. Twenty-five cents a pound for the crop will cause the eastern Carolina producers to glimpse the rainbow again, though it will be a less spectacular phenomenon than that glimpsed in 1919 and 1920, when many acquired so much land and cattle that the slump found them financially hanged from the incumbrances of their extravagance.

Not all of the 1922 tobacco crop in this section is of poor quality. In some localities excellent stands have been had. There are the exception, however. Growers whose crops made a poor growth are taking heart from the fact that in the markets now open the shabbier grades are bringing profitable prices.

Greensboro Woman Enters Columbia University At 71

Mrs. A. B. Crawford Believes Mental Alertness Will Keep her Young.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—At 71, Mrs. A. B. Crawford, of Greensboro, N. C., has entered the summer session of Columbia University as a student. College graduate and Vassar student more than half a century ago, and mother of six, Mrs. Crawford says she is studying in order to keep mentally alert and up to date, which is the real secret of youth. She is Columbia's oldest student.

"There is no need to grow old, mentally, at least," said Mrs. Crawford, who is living at 420 West 118th Street during her stay here. "Stagnation and intolerance are one's greatest foes in keeping young. These changing times demand new viewpoints, and the woman of today must keep herself well informed as a part of her duty as a citizen."

Mrs. Crawford does nothing unusual in "going to school" at her age, explaining that she "lost her job" when her children grew up and established themselves, and in her long busy life she has never had as much leisure as she would like for reading and study. Three of her five sons are teachers, another is a merchant in Winston-Salem, N. C., and the fifth is connected with a tobacco company of that city. A grandson, E. B. Crawford, was graduated from the University of North Carolina in June. Her son, L. W. Crawford, is assistant director of the summer session at Columbia. Richard M. is teaching at William and Mary College in Virginia and F. M. Crawford is an instructor in the high school at Girard, Ohio.

Mrs. Crawford was a teacher for two years after graduation from the Greensboro College for Women in 1869 and a year of study at Vassar, then four years old. Marriage to a Methodist minister interrupted her work and brought with it many home duties and parish work, but she was always an ardent reader. She believes she kept herself young by striving always to be intellectually awake, keeping herself in constant association with young persons and safeguarding her health with judicious exercise and a few simple rules of hygiene.

"There is no end to growth," she declares energetically. Her six weeks study here she will use, she explained, as a basis for her reading during the winter months at home. Philosophy and literature interest her most. Comparative literature and Professor Montague's course in radical conservative and reactionary tendencies in present day morals are the subjects she is taking up.

Asked her opinion of the modern "clapper" she replied that the term was used so indiscriminately that she was not sure of its meaning, but that she did not condemn the girls of today for reaching out toward freer, broader lives. Girls of today do not study so hard as they used to, she said, but nevertheless, they have a broader and more intelligent outlook than the schoolgirls of her generation. But no one has any excuse for narrowness and stagnation today, she declared, because knowledge has been made so accessible in our schools, libraries, and the wealth of periodicals in this country.

The country was gradually making progress toward the fulfillment of its democratic ideals. Social and economic ideas undreamed of by her day were becoming commonplace now. She believed that a new social and industrial order is bound to come out of the struggle between capital and labor, but how soon it will come or what form it will take she does not venture to prophesy.

In Greensboro she lives with her daughter, whose two little girls, 7 and 8, are "keeping up" with the grand mother by good records in school. The outer, who will not be nine until December, enters the fifth grade this fall.

FATHER'S PROTEST ENDS IN A WEDDING TRAGEDY

GENEVA, Aug. 5.—The story of a pathetic wedding tragedy yesterday in Bruggen, Austria, was told by the Geneva newspapers today.

A wealthy widower named Krauss was about to give his 20-year-old daughter in marriage to a former Austrian officer. Krauss had made elaborate preparations for the ceremony, which was to occur at noon and had given his daughter a large dowry.

But when he first saw the girl's beautiful wedding dress he declared it was too décolleté and told her he would not allow her to enter the church "half naked." He locked her up in her bedroom and only relented to her pleading as far as to say she might go to the church in another gown. The daughter refused. The hour for the ceremony arrived and passed. Later the father heard a revolver shot, entered the room and found his daughter's body lying across the bed still clad in her bridal dress.

Phantom Vessel Terror to Craft Hauling Whiskey

Rum Pirate That Hovers Around 12-Mile Limit Has a Daredevil Captain and Crew of Eight Reckless Outlaws.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The presence in outer New York Harbor of a phantom rum pirate, which pounces on liquor smugglers by night and joshes the prohibition navy by day, was revealed to customs officials when the United States rum scout Taylor returned to port today after trying for a week to capture this modern disciple of Captain Kidd.

Numerous tales of the escapades of the mystery ship which has thrown consternation into the fleet of non-descript craft engaged in coastwise liquor smuggling, were brought in by the crew of the Taylor. The name of the craft is unknown, for none of its victims or pursuers has seen a single mark of identification on her misty gray hull. Her lines were described as those of a high speed cruiser over sixty feet in length and propelled by two noiseless gasoline motors which send her skimming out of danger when she is approached by an inquisitive visitor.

Daredevil Captain
The pirate captain is said to be a daredevil prototype of the Captain Kidd he emulates; his crew of eight who carry automatic pistols instead of cutlasses, and drink Bahama whiskey instead of Jamaica rum.

Their craft hovers just outside the 12-mile limit, at the end of the ocean lane travelled by tug, schooner, trawler, and yacht engaged in hauling liquor from Nassau, Bahamas and St. John, Nova Scotia, to New York, and New Jersey customers.

An instance of the pirate's method was recited by a member of the Taylor's crew as follows:

Pirate's Methods
"A smuggler's craft was anchored outside of the safety 12-mile limit waiting for the speedy harbor launch which would transfer its cargo of imported liquor to waiting bootleggers ashore. Suddenly and silently the pirate ship appeared out of the mist and drew alongside. Her skipper boarded the anchored vessel, flashed a huge roll of currency and bargained for the purchase of 200 cases of whiskey.

When the liquor had been transferred from the hold of one vessel to the other, the pirate calmly stuffed his roll out of sight and leaped aboard his own craft. The victimized crew ran for their guns. When they returned they found themselves looking into the muzzles of eight automatic pistols as the mystery ship silently dove away into the darkness."

This quick disappearance act has earned the pirate ship the name of "Peylean" among those in the rum running trade, it was said. Numerous small ships, engaged in legitimate coastwise trade, have reported to harbor police and customs officials that they were boarded outside the 12-mile limit by a husky crew and their cargoes were examined and found liquorless; the huskies in each case clambered aboard the "Peylean" and made a quick get-away.

Sights the "Peylean"

Captain D. McDonald, of the Taylor, reported having given one of his several times during the week he was venturing inside the 12-mile limit without whisking away to safety when the Taylor hove in sight.

Sometimes, said McDonald, the Volstead Captain Kidd would show an invitation to the crew of the rum chaser to have a drink. At other times the crew would line the rail at a safe distance—drinking from a newly opened bottle of liquor.

In this respect the pirate crew fares better than the crews of most smugglers, whose drinking is revenue of sorts, bottled beer is carried for the sailors so they will not be tempted to break into the more valuable whiskey cargo.

Edward Barnes, assistant solicitor to the collector of the port, today advised his department in planning drastic steps to prevent rum smuggling from gaining a firm footing. Secret importation of opium, cocaine and other narcotics may be expected as the bootleggers' next activity, he said, since they are more profitably handled than liquor.

That the traffic is meeting with strong opposition was shown in recent seizures of the prohibition navy, which now total over 200,000 bottles and 100 barrels of whiskey, with 25 vessels confiscated.

These figures do not include 65 cases of liquor seized recently when the "P. N. J." was boarded as it sped from its mother ship into the harbor, and since reported to have disappeared while in the care of the New York marine police. Commissioner of the port has received a letter asking him to investigate the disappearance, and his reply will be awaited before the government starts any action to recover the liquor, said Major John Holley Clark, of the Customs Department.

STAUNTON, Ind., Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—The first coal loaded under Governor McCray's plan of production for state use under state troops was piled into a car at a strip mine here today while armed militiamen stood by.

While only one car was filled today—about 50 tons—it is expected that Monday noon production will begin and that a few days later a 1,000 tons a day will go out of Staunton.

LABOR TROUBLES IN ITALY ARE LESS SERIOUS
ROME, Aug. 5.—(By The Associated Press.)—The storm of violence between Italy's two extreme political elements—Fascist and Communist—which has swept the country throughout the week, began to show some signs of abatement tonight, leaving in its wake scores of killed and thousands of wounded.
Reports from various parts of the country, however, indicated that both factions were maintaining a defiant attitude. The abyss separating the extreme parties has undoubtedly been widened as a result of the short-lived general strike proclaimed early in the week throughout the country in protest against reprisals that had been carried out by the Fascist against their communist adversaries.
The government announced shortly after noon today that order had been restored in Milan, Genoa and Ancona after desperate fighting had raged in all three places for more than 24 hours. But reports from other parts of the country showed that hostilities were far from over.

FARRIS OFFERS REED SUPPORT
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—Following statewide reports that anti-Reed Democrats were considering to place an independent senatorial candidate in the field to oppose United States Senator James A. Reed at the general election next November, State Senator Frank Farris, one of the most ardent backers of Breckinridge Long, who was Senator Reed's opponent for the nomination at last Tuesday's primary election, tonight sent Mr. Reed a telegram assuring him of his support.

FLAMES SWEEP FORESTS
SPOKANE, August 5.—From the Rocky Mountains in Montana to the Columbia River in Washington and up to 100 miles from the Canadian border, thousands of men are fighting forest fires which, with nature apparently siding with them, have, according to Theodore Goodyear, assistant State Forester, rendered Washington virtually helpless before them. In many instances, he said, with fire wardens fighting the worst fires and leaving the others to burn themselves out. One fire fighter on Foehl Creek, Idaho, was killed yesterday when a burning tree fell on him.
The particularly hot, dry weather of the past two months, which recently had culminated in severe thunderstorms, has made the forest condition extremely critical. Lightning has started many more fires than the rain has checked and in most inaccessible places.
Many hundreds of acres of fine government or private stands of timber have been burned or are on fire. Glacier National Park, the Blackfoot Forest and the Kanku Forest are affected.

MARKED BY LIGHTNING.
YORK, Pa., Aug. 5.—Thirty Hanover children who took shelter on the porch of a shack in the Pigeon Hills during a severe thunderstorm yesterday afternoon had their bodies marked by a bolt of lightning that shattered a large tree close to their place of refuge, but not one was seriously hurt. They complained of severe smarting for a time from the marks, which resembled burns, but felt no other ill effects.
The children, ranging in age from 6 to 13 years, were on a hike in charge of Miss Ella Thomas, a playground leader, when the storm overtook them. The marks made on the children's bodies were of a variety of shapes and sizes. Gladys Heiges was marked with red streaks running the length of her right arm. Jennie Scheivel had similar marks on the right foot and Mildred Kienman bears a large red cross on her back.

ENGLAND'S WHITE HOUSE IN DANGER OF COLLAPSING
LONDON, August 5.—(Associated Press.)—Number 10 Downing street, the home and office of Prime Minister Lloyd George and the nearest British counterpart to the White House, is in danger of collapse.
The building rests on a subsoil of marsh and mud, which during last year's drought, settled so much that it was feared the three-hundred-year-old residence of the premier and that of his next door neighbor, Austin Chamberlain, government leader in the House of Commons, who lives at No. 11.
During the present recess of parliament, his majesty's office workers will take Nos. 10 and 11—"the two wings of the coalition"—an hand and prop them up by underpinning the foundations.
Visiting Downing street which is as dark and narrow as, but cleaner than, American alleys, is one of the regulation pilgrimages of American tourists. Since the Sinn Fein outrages of 1920 the entrance has been barricaded with high, unsightly gates, which seem strong enough to withstand any assault short of artillery, but not the onslaughts of dyed-in-the-wool American tourists. Scores of them are making daily visits into the famous street this summer. The more adventurous even go to the threshold of the dingy brick building and run their fingers over the polished brass numbers, which are firmly affixed, according to souvenir hunters.

The London divorce court has just finished what is probably the last of its record breaking lists of petitions for marriage annulments. To relieve the London judicial machinery of overburden by such cases, certain classes of divorce pleas will be transferred to Assizes Courts in the provinces when the court sittings are resumed.
Petitions asking for dissolution of unhappy marriages have been so numerous since the war that judges had to be borrowed each term from other benches to reinforce the regular divorce court judiciary, in order that the lists might be cleared up before the expiration of half term. Once or twice the Lord Chancellor has found it necessary to spend a few hours daily between sittings of the House of Lords, where he presides on the wool sack, to assist judges laboring with congestion in the divorce hall.
Notwithstanding the fact that one judge established a record by disposing of petitions in an average of eight minutes, his time taken from hearing other cases caused clogging in the courts elsewhere, so that the transfer of a portion of the work to the Assizes was found to be the only solution.

OWENS ELECTED HEAD OF S. C. C.
WASHINGTON, August 5.—Dr. Clarence J. Owens was elected president of the Southern Commercial Congress today by the directors of the organization. The election was unanimous and was announced by Thomas R. Preston, of Chattanooga, who has served as president for the last two years.
Dr. Owens has served as director general of the Southern Commercial Congress for the last fourteen years. It was announced today that the office of director general would be discontinued and the president will become the active executive of the organization.
Before becoming director general, Dr. Owens was president of several Southern colleges. He was in charge of the American Commission on rural credits, which in 1913 investigated agricultural and rural credit conditions in Europe, which formed a basis for enactment by Congress of the farm bank act.

KIDNAPERS SEND BOY'S FATHER DUN FOR $200 "BALANCE DUE"
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A letter from a kidnaping gang, which appeared with business-like efficiency on the first of the month, demanding of Salvatore Ivarone the payment of the $200 "balance due" of the ransom of his 3-year-old boy, who disappeared last June with his mother and $40,000 in cash, resulted in the arrest of Vincenzo Damiani tonight.
Damiani, the police say, admitted taking part in the kidnaping. He will be charged with abduction and extortion.
Ivarone returned after a few hours' absence from his home last June to find that his wife had disappeared with $40,000 and his boy. In response to a letter asking $400 for the return of his son, and fearing harm to his life, Ivarone met a man, whom he now identifies as Damiani, and paid him $200—all he had at the time. The boy was returned, but no trace has yet been found of the wife, save a letter dated Madison, Ill.

Detective Flascchetti—Nemesis of "Black Hand" gangs of New York's underworld—located Damiani after Ivarone received his bill for the rest of the ransom, with threats of danger if he failed to make immediate payment. Flascchetti believes Ivarone's wife is held captive somewhere in this city and the letter from Madison is a trick of the kidnapers.

CAR STRIKE NEAR END
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Union officials and executives of the Chicago surface lines agreed tonight to proposals which, if accepted by the traction employees, would end the four day strike of surface lines and elevated employees.
Immediately following the conference it was stated that the men's representatives had agreed to a 20-cent maximum wage instead of the present 32-cent wage, but that they retained the eight-hour day, with overtime for all beyond the eighth hour, and also retained working conditions effective before the strike. Ratification of the men, if given, would allow cars to begin operation by Sunday or Monday. It was said, thus running the strike into its sixth or seventh day.
Mayor William H. Hall, Thompson's plan for relieving the street car strike situation with motor buses, operating on a five-cent fare basis, resulted today in a general invitation to bus owners any place in the Middle West to bring their cars to Chicago and operate them. No licenses will be required so long as the fare is five cents.
The Mayor is now operating fifteen buses, and expects 24 more to reach the city tonight, nine from Rockford, Ill., and 15 from Toledo, Ohio.
Yesterday the Mayor asked the city council to appropriate $2,000,000 to buy a permanent fleet of motor buses to be operated by the city.

WORKER WAYLAI
TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 5.—J. L. Mosley, night foreman for the Tampa Dock Company, which is repairing locomotives for the Seaboard Air Line railway, was waylaid by three men early tonight as he was about to enter the yard. A coat was thrown over his head and he was thrust into a waiting automobile, taken several miles into the country, stripped, and tarred and feathered.

"Daddy Long Legs" Jilted Her, Plea In $100,000 Love Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—"With much love from your funny old Daddy Long Legs," was the tender sentence chosen by a 25-year-old John B. Woodward, New York business representative of the Chicago Daily News and five other American newspapers, to terminate affectionate letters written to Miss Edith L. Ransom, 28, of the Hotel Laureton, 55th street and 7th Ave., according to the papers in Miss Ransom's breach of promise suit for $100,000 against Mr. Woodward, filed in the Supreme Court yesterday.

Mr. Woodward, in his office in the Times Building, refused to discuss the documentary evidence offered in support of Miss Ransom's action. His attorney, Henry Smith, of No. 261 Broadway, said the allegations will be met "fairly and frankly when the case comes to trial."

Invited to Chicago. Miss Ransom, from Richmond, Va. was a secretary in the New York headquarters of the Committee on Public Information in 1918 when she met Mr. Woodward at a dinner party. Soon a friendship developed, and in the early spring of 1920 Miss Ransom says Mr. Woodward asked her to become his wife. He was accepted.

Then Miss Ransom alleges she was invited to Chicago at her fiancé's expense and feted at country clubs and private homes as the bride-to-be. The wedding was fixed for the fall, and the purchase of the trousseau Mr. Woodward, according to Miss Ransom, footed the bill, as well as paid the score for the young woman at the Edgewater Beach Hotel on Chicago lake front.

Later, she says, the wedding date was fixed for Christmas, 1920, and then delayed, and delayed, and delayed until eight or nine months ago. Mr. Woodward said he could not keep his promise. However, he did employ Miss Ransom as his secretary in his office here, dismissing her in May last in a tender letter expressing solicitude for her health and advising her to find employment as a "companion to some old woman."

Introduced As Fiancee. In a letter to the papers in New York both were guests in adjoining rooms at a health farm at Southampton, N. Y., where Mr. Woodward, according to statements by several persons, had introduced Miss Ransom as his fiancée.

Fall Dresses Show New Colors

THESE are the colors you'll wear in your new fall frocks: Teal and nut brown as well as several wood tones. Flax and royal are the two most fashionable blues. Green is the newest color and will be especially popular in almond, which is the favored red. Bright emerald and light empire are two other shades well spoken of. Rosewood and bright red will also be used by way of contrast. Daytime dresses of all kinds will, of course, be of staple colors—tan, black, silver gray, blue and navy.

The model sketched is of new style (will) and shows the simple lines that are expected to dominate this autumn.

I think Mr. Woodward would have remained faithful," said Miss Ransom at the Laureton yesterday, "but for the influence of his married daughter, his only child. I think he loves me to this day. Why, he was here to see me only last night, two days after he was served with the summons in my suit. He came at 9:30 and remained until 12:30. No, he did not indicate he came to have me drop the suit or to annoy me at all. In fact, he was extremely pleasant. Why, he said he wished me all the luck in the world, and, yes, he said he hoped I'd win the suit."

"Of course I'd marry him I'd marry him tomorrow. My suit is not a mercenary action. It is the only measure remaining to me to defend my character and assuage the humiliation I have had to endure as a consequence of Mr. Woodward's change of mind."

Versatile Letter Writer. All the letters submitted by Stapleton & Channing, No. 305 Broadway, of counsel for Miss Ransom, start "Dear Edith," and one of them says: "You have great versatility in letter writing. In almost every letter you write you show it."

HERE'S HOW THEY DO IT.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—For the first time the Pullman company has made public its system of naming cars. The names and the mystery connected with their selections have piqued public curiosity for 40 years.

"Sequence is the system. One name suggests another," says the Pullman bulletin. Thus: "Ruth and Naomi, Venus and Adonis, Dewey and Manila." This picker was Biblical. Next came some one with classical thought: "Helen and Paris, also Trojan, Ilion, Achilles, Hector, Ajax, Nestor and Ulysses and Penelope."

Then comes selections from Dickens character, Kipling and his works, Walter Scott characters, Indian names, Ireland and its counties, Arthur and his Roundtable Knights. To titillate the palates of those who regret the passage of the Eighteenth amendments there are the cars. Burbon, Ryegate, Gordon, Manhattan, Moselle, Burgundy, Tokay, Mette, Cognac, Scotland and Bacchante. Hope is seen in the Wetmore but, Oh my prophetic soul, there is also Aqua and Temperance.

BLACK AND WHITE

Black and white continues to be the favorite combination of the smart woman. Usually the millinery is black and white though there is a tendency to use a hat of some very vivid shade of green, flame or blue.

Woodrum's Election Conceded By Woods

ROANOKE, Aug. 6.—Congratulations to Judge C. A. Woodrum over his victory in obtaining the nomination for representative to Congress from this district were yesterday afternoon extended by Representative James P. Woods, defeated candidate for re-election, following his receipt of the official canvass of the returns showing that Woodrum's majority was 386 votes.

"I congratulate you on being the choice of the voters of the Sixth district voting in the recent primary as disclosed by the official canvass of the returns made yesterday, and reported to me today," Colonel Woods wrote.

Following the receipt of the communication from Colonel Woodrum, Judge Woodrum issued a statement expressing gratification over the letter received from his opponent.

"As far as I am concerned, the election is over," he declared, "and the friends of, and those that voted for Colonel Woods, are my friends, and all animosities will be forgotten."

"From now on," he continued, "I will devote my attention and labors to uniting the wings of the Democratic party and upbuilding it so that the party can render a greater service to its people. I pledge myself that if successful in the election in November to devote my entire time in Congress looking after the interests of the government and at all times will be ready to serve all persons in the Sixth district to the best of my ability."

No announcement has been made to the effect that a Republican candidate for Congress from this district will be put in the field. There have been reports that either R. I. Roop, of Montgomery county, or Greene Profit, of Floyd, will be the Republican nominee, if they decide to enter a candidate.

SCOUTS VOLCANIC SCARE

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of volcanoes might break into eruption simultaneously, with the production of any appreciable geological effect, and certainly without destroying half a continent or even a substantial fraction of one.

This is the reassuring statement made by Professor Lacroix, of the French Museum, and member of the French Institute, while reports continue to come in of earthquakes in the region of Pau, in the Southeast of France, Pisa, in Italy, and elsewhere. He advises people not to take seriously Dr. Noble's predictions that a portion of Europe will be destroyed.

A fearful loss of life might result from many coincident eruptions, but, as he points out, even the eruption of Montpelée on the island of Martinique, which killed 30,000, wrought little terrestrial destruction.

COAT DRESSES

Coat dresses for the season are heavily braided. This gives the weight such a frock needs. The skirts are usually circular and side panels are almost inevitable.

GAS FILLS WHOLE VALLEY. BRISTOW, Okla., Aug. 5.—A giant gas well estimated to be making 30,000,000 feet of gas an hour and spraying oil is holding up passenger and freight traffic over the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad between here and Kellyville, and delaying all traffic between Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

The well is 160 feet from the railway track and has filled the valley for more than a mile around with gas; trains would ignite the explosive gas and cause a disastrous fire. Oil men said, barring accidents, the well would be under control by night. The well came in last night.

MAIL IN ATLANTIC CITY. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—Atlantic City tonight was visited by the greatest freak storm in its history, hail stones the size of marbles falling almost continuously for half an hour. They covered the ground with a white blanket.

BLUE LAWS ENFORCED

IN HENRY VI.'S REIGN
Strict Decree Against Sabbath Violation—Edward VI. Compelled People to Go to Church in 1546(From London-Tid-Bits.)
From the period of Henry VI. in 1483 to 1546 A. D. England suffered from a very "bluish" period of legislation. It was about this time when the Puritan movement was beginning to make headway, and when strict observance of the Sabbath was a matter that concerned the governing bodies of the church and state as well.

The strictness of the decrees of Henry VI. against violating the Sabbath is strikingly illustrated by one of the statutes during his time. One of these prohibited workmen from claiming wages for work done on Sunday. Not only would a workman expose himself to the and imprisonment for claiming wages for work done on the Sabbath but for the actual work itself.

A traveler once entered the shop of a shoemaker on a Sunday to have his shoes repaired. When the work was completed he refused to pay, claiming that the work was done on a Sunday, and if he were reported to his pay he would be reported to his pay.

In 1546 Edward VI. ordered the people to go to church on Sunday. An exception was made of farmers whose useful work it was thought could not be postponed. Meat selling was prohibited during the hours of worship, but after church the shopkeepers were permitted to keep their places of business open as it was thought necessary.

In 1544 the Puritans began to be known by that name in England, and to them it owed the happy life they laws that were enacted during that period.

COMING TO HIM

(From The London Express)

A candidate in a rural district of England was getting a firm hold on his electors and was volubly painting in vivid colors the happy life they would lead if he were their member in Parliament.

"You have not yet got two acres of land each and a cow, but that will come!" he cried.

"You have not got free homes for old people, but that will come."

He passed on to prison reform. "I have had no experience of those institutions," he remarked, "but—"

A voice: "But that will come, governor."

CERTAIN RELIEF
FOR INDIGESTION

Indigestion and its attendant ills such as dyspepsia, heart-burn, sour stomach, griping pains, dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, cholera morbus, chronic constipation, gas, etc., and even sick, nervous headaches are now directly traceable to disorders in the digestive organs.

The food source before it is fully digested, thus putting into solution toxic poisons that are absorbed into the system, irritating the intestines and setting up inflammation. To avoid this, you simply have to prevent fermentation by using Anti-Ferment. Anti-Ferment is the acid condition of the stomach, cleanses and sweetens the bowels, soothes and heals the inflamed intestines and increases the flow of gastric juices, giving quick relief from indigestion. It is a guarantee of satisfactory results or money returned. It will improve your appetite, give you restful sleep and make you feel better than you ever felt in your life.—adv.

Cocoanut Oil Makes
A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Multisified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls of Multisified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and few a ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisified.—adv.

TO REAR CHILDREN "MAKE 'EM WORK," SAYS FATHER OF 21

(By GENE COHN.)

CLOUD, Cal., Aug. 7.—"Most all in raising children because don't make 'em work hard."

And, sa-father of 21 children, Nicholas Singley, 73, is well qualified to speak on the subject.

One of California's champion fathers, Singley holds that each household should have a minimum of six youngsters. Singley's wife presented him with ten and his second with 11 children.

"I don't advocate that every family should attempt 21," he says. "Don't worry. I've had my little troubles. But not one of my kids was ever in any trouble more serious than the usual childish pranks."

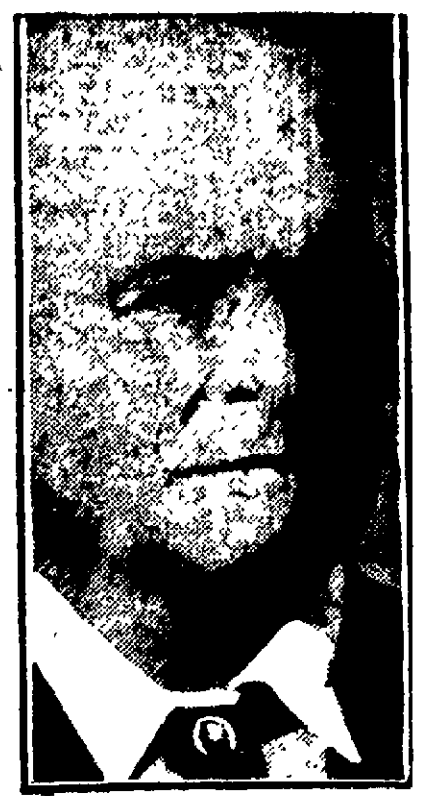

What's his theory?
"Well, I reared them just the way I was reared—to work. When you've got them doing that you've got them out of mischief, you're training them towards the future and you're helping out the family income."

"I've never been an advocate of whipping the kids. I've hit mine only when there was no other way of reasoning with them."

"I believe, in schooling but keep them working and busy when they're not in school, that was the old system and it didn't produce any namby-pamby, gangsters and thugs. It produced men and pioneers, wives and ladies."

Singley was an early day pioneer and Indian fighter, a firm believer that hard work and long life go hand in hand.

"My father lived to be 107," he recalls. "And I expect to do as well. We didn't think ten hours was a long day—I've worked 18 hours and it didn't hurt me."

M. POINCARE'S BARREN POLICY
GAINS NOTHING AND LOSES MUCH

PARIS, Aug. 5.—With the parliamentary vacation, French politicians are reckoning up the advantages and disadvantages of the Poincare administration. Since the beginning of the year Raymond Poincare has been in power. What has he accomplished? It would be easy to answer in one word—nothing. No problem has been solved, no progress has been made. On the contrary, many failures are to be recorded.

The negative policy of M. Poincare was partly responsible for the fiasco of the Geneva conference. The opposition of M. Poincare to the reduction of the German debt to reasonable proportions prevented the bankers' committee from recommending a loan. France has not received any more cash by way of reparations than she would have done under any other ministry. M. Poincare has discovered no magic method. Nor, from the point of view of the fire-aters, has he succeeded in invading the Ruhr or of pushing into Berlin the army of occupation.

It would not be difficult to show that if he has done no good he has done much harm. He has driven a suspicious America to demand impossible payments. The worst of it is that M. Poincare has been logically and legally right, or nearly so. He has held out for what was strictly due, and he has received nothing. The financial position in France is worse than ever and indeed everybody is beginning to talk of bankruptcy being inevitable unless some arrangements can quickly be made.

France finds herself saddled with an 18 months' military law and it is not hard to realize that the prospect of all young French men serving for 18 months is not a very attractive one. It would be unfair to M. Poincare to pretend that any one could have fulfilled his promise, and probably M. Poincare has done as well and no better than any other conceivable prime minister.

Sooner or later the comparison between performance and promise will cause disillusionment and M. Poincare will have to go. Indeed there are signs that the process has already begun. Nevertheless M. Poincare maintains his strength. It is impossible to agree with those French politicians such as M. Tardieu on the one hand and M. Herriot on the other hand, who believe that the day of M. Poincare is numbered. Thanks to firm language and well sounding phrases there is no important opposition to M. Poincare retains his seat and appears to be able to do so for many months to come unless there is a real financial crash.

him from the left. The radicals are feeble and their leaders run away when there is a fight or else actually support M. Poincare. The Socialists, owing to the stupid and destructive tactics of Moscow, are hopelessly divided. Nobody takes notice of the Communists any longer. They have shown their impotence. The only danger to M. Poincare comes from the right. There are those who blame him for not carrying out his threats, for not extending the occupation of Germany, for giving way on Russian questions, for being too conciliatory toward England. They would have him bluster and lead France into complete isolation. These sections put pressure upon him and blame him for not being the man of the reaction. But it is curious that such sections must be extremists and that though their authority and influence is not small they are not overwhelming. There is a solid center on which M. Poincare relies, which he well represents, a center which is pleased with big words, which admires his verbal firmness, but which would shrink from real action and would probably desert him were he to attempt to execute his declared policy.

Thus it comes about that M. Poincare is condemned to inaction while indisposing foreign countries on account of his speeches. While he pursues his sterile policy of negation he is for the time being comparatively safe. To the French people there are only two policies, that of negation and that of abnegation. It is considered abnegation to do anything, since some surrender of rights will be involved. But to surrender these rights results in negation. At the end of the French parliament session M. Poincare shows himself to be a man of negation and therefore still the fitting representative of the present chamber.

FRUIT

The wide hills are leaning
With their arms full of fruit;
The valleys lift up their trees—
Scarlet cherries,
Purple plums,
Little green pears,
Touched with russet
There are bushes
Where the berries hang
Rich and ripe,
Bursting with the sweetness
Of their juice.
It is a good time of year—
This space between the golden harvest
Of the autumn
And the first of summer—
I shall gather cherries and plums
And stain my fingers
With berries.
And my tongue shall know
The wild, sweet taste
Of many fruits.
I shall go under a wide blue sky,
Under a golden sun,
Telling here and there,
At an endless banquet,
—Abigail Cresson.

TOO MUCH FOR HER.

(From the Augusta-Kennebec Journal.)

"You will marry the one you love," said the fortune teller.

"Has he dark hair?" asked Miss Gush.

"Yes."

"Has he a sweet little mustache?"

"Yes."

"Is his name George?"

"Yes."

"Is he a motor car showman?"

"Yes."

"Does he live in Blank street?"

"Yes."

"Has he given me an engagement ring set with a diamond and two pearls?"

"Yes."

"Will he be twenty-four in March?"

"Yes."

"My," said Miss Gush, as she turned to her companion, "Isn't it perfectly wonderful how a fortune teller can know all these things! And it's true, too! I can't understand it!"

AMHERST POSTOFFICE

AMHERST, Va., August 5.—Wednesday night between 11 and 12 o'clock postmen broke into the post-office at Amherst, blew the safe with nitro-glycerine, but got very little of value.

The entire safe was effected through the back door of the building, from which the iron bar was removed, the lock broken and the door smashed in. Blacksmith tools were used by the postmen in their work, and some of these were left in the postoffice.

UNION VOTES TO VIOLATE AN INJUNCTION

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 5.—Several hundred members of the one big union, at a mass meeting late today in the city hall voted to violate an injunction recently granted the Pacific mills here by performing mass picketing at the plant Monday morning. Earlier in the day a conference between officials of Pacific Mills and representatives of two other union organizations, the United Textile Workers and the American Federation of Textile Operatives, had failed to reach an agreement on terms of strike settlement.

Announcing that he had been in jail before and was willing to go again, Ben Rogers, head of the one big union, called for a show of hands of those who were ready to join him on the picket line Monday. Nearly all present raised their hands.

SLOWEST AND FASTEST
THINGS IN THE WORLD

(From the Detroit News.)

What are the slowest and speediest things on earth? Scientists believe light and electricity, which travel 186,000 feet a second, are the fastest, and the human thumb, which grows 2-1,000,000,000 of a yard a second, is probably the slowest.

The fastest material thing on earth is thought to be the projectile from a gun, the velocity from which is 2,000 miles an hour. According to sporting records, a man can walk a mile in 6-1-2 minutes and run it in 4-1-2 minutes.

Probably the fastest speed at which a steam engine and train ever ran over the rails was in 1901, when an engine and train reached a speed of 120 miles an hour, or two miles a minute.

Tommy Milton travelled in an auto at the rate of one mile in little more than 23 seconds.

An electric train between Berlin and Zossen attains a speed of 130 miles an hour, which is the highest ever attained by a railroad train.

The highest speed attained by an aviator is that of De Romanet, the French aviator, who reached 193 miles an hour. It has been reported, however, that this speed has been exceeded in this country.

ALCHEMIST'S SECRET
NEVER DISCOVERED

(From London Tid-Bits.)

Alexander Seton, a Scottish alchemist, was thrown into prison by the Duke of Saxony, who demanded of him the secret of the philosopher's stone.

Seton refused to produce a fortune in transmuted gold which the Duke asked for his ransom, and even unto torture he told nothing. But when a fellow alchemist, Sendivogus, offered to help him escape, in return for a little information about alchemy, Seton agreed.

He regained his freedom, but, with the caution of the Scot, he refused to tell his secret to his deliverer. Instead he gave Sendivogus an ounce of transmuted powder.

This powder was used to such good effect that Sendivogus was credited with cures of diseases and production of gold. But eventually the ounce was used up.

Seton was dead by that time, and the less skillful friend married his widow, hoping that the Scot had left her the secret of mixing the powder. If she knew, however, she never told.

GIRL STOWAWAYS ENJOY
EVERY MINUTE OF TRIP

CHERBOURG, France, August 6.—Two young girl stowaways from New York found on the steamship Majestic, enjoyed every minute of their transatlantic trip. "When the big White Star liner arrived here today both Anna Muller and Katherine Fleming, the 13-year-old chums, who secreted themselves in one of the Majestic's lifeboats before she sailed last Saturday, declared they had had a merry time. "The captain is a regular old dear," said Anna, "but the ship's cook—he's the most wonderful man I ever saw." "Just the same, we'll be glad to get home," chimed in Katherine. "I really never dreamed the Atlantic was such a big ocean." The stowaways will be returned to New York on the next westward trip of the liner.

TYPE GOWNS NO LONGER MAKE HIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—The woman who permits herself to be guided in her dress by others is suffering her imagination. Recently we have been getting away from the herd idea. When a style promises to become a "season's rage," we shrink from it as we would the mumps.

This spirit has forced manufacturers to use their imagination. They are no longer able to sell dozens of gowns of the same character.

The small town merchant often refuses to purchase more than one gown of a kind and in consequence the women of the small town are as well groomed as their Fifth Avenue sisters.

The country girl with the funny clothes, pilled back hair and clumsy shoes can only be found in the cheap vaudeville acts. The gingham bolt idea, where the whole family utilized the same bolt no longer appeals to hear. In a word, she has used her imagination and has made herself as appealing and as attractive as possible.

If a fashion writer says that polka dots are the vogue, study the effect of the polka dots upon yourself before accepting the verdict as applying to you. An extremely large woman in a gown that is covered with polka dots will look somewhat like an elephant with the hives. A slender girl in a gown may appear entirely winsome in the same gown.

This winter promises that the wide flat hats are to be with us again. Unless you are of medium height don't

At a recent benefit staged on Long Island by the theatrical people of New York, a gathering where many of our best families sought to outshout each other, there was one young girl who attracted more attention than any one else of her age. There were flappers galore, in sleeveless beaded gowns, bobbed heads and silver footgear. Beauties among them.

But the girl to whom all eyes turned was a wholesome young thing with a wealth of blond hair coiled low at the nape of her neck, who was crowned in a simple, childish looking white or gandy, with little puffed sleeves. And horror upon horror, she had chosen a pink sash and wore a wreath of forget-me-nots in her hair.

She was the living recollection of that sweet girlhood that seem forever gone. She was an individual. It was plain to see that it was not an effectation with her. She had chosen a gown that appealed to her simple imagination and had made herself a thing of beauty.

There is one friend with whom a woman is always on good speaking terms, a friend who never flits to her—her mirror.

The question of fur length is one which is ever important as fall approaches. Buyers returning from Europe agree that the cape should be from 4 1/2 to 4 3/4 inches long; and that coats should be 48 to 50 inches. Capes should be about four inches shorter than the dress, as they are ungainly when as long as the dress. The fur coat is strong in Paris and may cause the cape to wane in popularity. Both the long coat and the short coat are popular models for the coming season, it is declared.

Duveltyne is to be used for the early fall hat. A wide mushroom shape of black velveteen is edged with a fold of silver cloth and has a cabochon of silver cloth centered with pearl beads placed at the front of the crown.

Stylish experts seem to be convinced that women are reacting against the simple crepe dress, devoid of trimming that has enjoyed such a vogue. They declare that women want color, want beaded and embroidered effects and want elaborate combinations of elaborate materials. ## GOLD LURE STARTS NEW "49" RUSH AT VANCOUVER

MINERS AT SCENE OF NEW GOLD RUSH, SCREENING FOR THE PRECIOUS METAL WITH THE IMPLEMENTS FAMED IN '49. EDNA HANLEY

VANCOUVER, Aug. 7.—The melodrama of the gold rush, with all the color and violence of the '49 days and of the Klondike, is being staged 300 miles north of here in the bleak territory between the Frazer river and Cariboo mountains.

For weeks, prospectors, miners from California and Alaska, and their following of gamblers and adventurers have been making their way with pack-trains to Cedar Creek, Spanish Lake and Rose Gluck.

The rush has been in progress ever since three men, who staked claims there last fall, returned this spring with the news that gold had been found.

The discovery is an echo of another rush a half century ago when Cedar Creek in two years gave up $50,000,000 in gold to placer miners.

Now on the site of the old towns of the past, new groups of shacks have mushroomed into being. Placer mining, the crude cradle and pan of early days, is again the means of taking raw gold from the claims which were once thought exhausted but which in fact were only scraped.

Reports of clean-ups, of strikes in the vicinity of Spanish Lake and Keithly Lake as well as near the waters of Cedar Creek, have been coming in.

In the feverish stampede for wealth, there have been several scenes of violence. Instances of claim-jumping and shooings have drifted back but no details have escaped from the isolated gold diands which can only be reached after miles of horseback riding and boating.

CONGRESS OF ORIENTAL PEOPLES AGAINST EUROPEAN IMPERIALISM

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Toward the end of May a congress of Oriental peoples was held in Genoa. The intent was to have its sessions run concurrent with those of the Genoa conference, but the delegates were late in arriving so the congress did not begin until after the conference had dispersed. Though the conference attracted little, almost no attention, it has, nevertheless, a significance which should not be overlooked.

It is impossible to study the press of such countries as Egypt, Syria, Mesopotamia, and Persia, without being struck by its growing tendency to envisage the east as a single whole. Cairo, Baghdad, Damascus, and Tehran have been late in becoming more and more inclined regard events in any of the others as a matter of concern to itself.

It is between the Arab countries that this sense of solidarity is most marked. Whether it be Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia or Transjordan, Hedjaz or Nejd, what is happening in any part of the Arab world is, judging from the press, of interest to the whole of it. Not only so but in every Arab city, there are now organs which are conducting a vigorous Pan-Arab propaganda and hopefully looking forward to the early consolidation of an Arab empire. Even so obscure a sheet as the Mecca-Al Kibla, the organ of King Hussein, finds room for news from distant parts of the Arab world, and actively interests itself in international politics.

This in itself is a new phenomenon. Though a Pan-Arab movement was in existence before the war, the scope of its propaganda was very limited, and it expressed itself in practice in little more than sporadic attempts at local reform. There was no concerted effort or common sentiment.

Even today, it would be easy to exaggerate the importance of the Pan-Arab movement. The Arab press, in the main, is written by a small body of ambitious politicians for a very limited public. Its circulation, even in the aggregate, is extremely small; and the great majority of the people are illiterate. Not to there is, in reality, anything like the sense of solidarity which the press assumes.

Nevertheless, the growth of Pan-Arab sentiment in the press of all Arab countries cannot be ignored. To this must be added the fact of stronger links between the Arab world and Egypt. Though there has long been an influential Syrian colony in Cairo, the Egyptian vernacular press, in the past, has taken very little interest in Arab politics. It is different no longer. The recent anti-French demonstrations in Damascus and Beirut were given extensive publicity in the Egyptian press, and its sympathetic attitude was noted with great satisfaction in Syria. Even in Persia a similar tendency was visible. Recent issues of the Teheran Igham, for example, show the influence of Arab propaganda.

Though the press should not be regarded as reflecting public opinion to anything approaching the same degree as the Occident, there is in all this unmistakable evidence that the peoples of the east are beginning to draw together. The war shook them out of their apathy. Impressed by the tendency of one eastern country after another to fall under western control, the east is beginning to feel that it has had its back to the wall, and must stand together against a common enemy.

It is important, too, to bear in mind that all these countries concerned are predominately Moslem. Their passage into European hands thus presents itself to eastern eyes as an affront to Moslem self-respect. Yet aside by side with the religious motive, which plays perhaps the dominant part, there also is an embryonic sense of nationality. Religion and nationality have never been easy to disentangle in the east, but western influences have so far prevailed as to make it possible for forward-looking men to envisage—at least as a matter of words—a nationality even in the east in which Moslems and "infidels" can have equal shares.

The movement which has been described assumes a variety of forms. There are among its leaders some who are interested chiefly in the revival of Oriental culture and the assertion of its essential unity. Such are the founders of the "Oriental League," organized recently in Cairo, under the leadership of Abdul Hamid el Bakry, once grand mufti of Egypt, and Ahmed Zeki Pasha, a former secretary to the council of ministers. The objects of the league, which includes representatives of Egypt, Mesopotamia, Persian and Turkey, as well as of the Palestinian Jews, are not primarily political. It is not anti-European. It aims at a literary and intellectual renaissance, which shall once more give the east a means of self-expression.

Other forces, however, also are at work. The discontented peoples of the east can be made into a valuable political asset for those in a position to use them. In the background stand Moscow and Ankara. Conclusion of the agreement between the Soviet government and the Nationalist Turks, early in 1921, was followed closely by an announcement in the Ankara assembly of a Pan-Islamic congress. Pointed references were made in this connection to North Africa, where the French are suffering difficulties with their Moslem subjects. One of the objects of the announcement undoubtedly was to exert pressure on those European powers having a substantial stake in the Islamic world.

In the proceedings which followed, the head of Moslems, mainly visible in the middle of May representatives of a number of eastern peoples assembled at Ankara, and it was then announced that a definite understanding between them would be elaborated in due course.

The Oriental Congress met at Genoa behind closed doors. An Egyptian nationalist, Abdul Hamid Said, presided, and Cheikh Alalau, a Syrian emigre, usually resident in Berlin, acted as secretary. Present were delegates from the Lebanon, India, Persia, Afghanistan, Turkey, Armenia, and Mesopotamia. The congress passed a voluminous resolution, protesting against European imperialism, and declaring that "if imperialism will not take our friendship, it will have to reckon with our enmity."

The congress also made the following demands:

The extension to the entire east of the European and American code of international law.

The abolition of mandates.

The recognition of the right of the eastern peoples to organize themselves in their own way as wholly independent states.

Complete withdrawal of European troops from all territory occupied by them in the east.

All eastern states to be admitted to full membership of the League of Nations.

The pact of non-aggression to be extended to the eastern states.

MINER TRIAL TO BE RESUMED AT CHARLESTOWN

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Preparation for the resumption of the famous Charlestown mine trials are under way today. John Wilburn, son of Rev. James E. Wilburn, recently convicted of murder in the second degree in connection with the armed march on Logan faces trial August 7. Two other sons are also to go to trial. One of them, Frank, is now in jail here.

The Wilburns, father and sons are alleged to have been in the party of 40 or 50 armed men which met and killed Deputy Sheriff John Gore and two of his aides.

Gore had mistaken the party for friends, according to Prosecuting Attorney John W. Branch, Logan county. The union men demanded the password which was in vogue among the miners at that time. Still thinking the men belonged to the state side, Gore replied, "Amen," and fell with a bullet in his back.

While Judge R. D. Bailey in Williamson, Mingo county, recently nolle prossed cases involving several officials and members of the United workers of America, these had nothing to do with the Charlestown trials. The case of Walter Allen, charged with treason will be taken up after the Wilburn trial. Allen is a union official of Dry Branch, Kanawha county. He is alleged to be one of the chief aides to the "general" of the march.

THE UNIVERSAL TRACTOR

R. F. D. No. 2,
Danville, Va.,
August 3, 1922.

Crowell Auto Co., Inc.,
Danville, Va.,

Gentlemen:
Regarding the Tractor which I purchased from you last May, will say that I feel that the money invested in my Fordson Tractor outfit is paying the biggest dividend of any money I have ever invested in farm equipment, and up to date have had no repair expense whatsoever.

My farm is exceptionally hilly, but I find that the Fordson works satisfactorily even on rolling lands.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) J. A. COLE.
